Are you interested in cross-cultural ministry but not able to attend a College or Seminary for training? Are you sensing God's call upon your life to engage in global mission but unable to afford the time or cost of tuition at a regular College or Seminary? If your answer is yes then please consider participating in this exciting new training based in the most exciting multicultural city in North America.

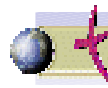

Take a few moments and consider the following training modules being offered by CrossTraining in Toronto September – December 2006.

Cross-Cultural Communication

September 11-15, 2006

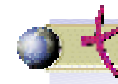

The purpose of this course is to explore the cultural, theoretical, and practical aspects of effective cross-cultural communication. Attention is given to the significance of acceptance of diverse cultures, values, ethnocentricity, verbal and non-verbal communication, and the dynamics of change. Participants will develop a personalized framework for effective cross-cultural communication.

Urban Realities and Strategies

October 9-13, 2006

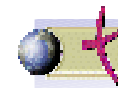

This course focuses on understanding the importance and dynamics of cities with a view to preparing the student for effective urban ministry. Attention is on developing a Biblical basis for urban ministry. As well, contemporary strategies to urban evangelism and church planting in North America and around the world are a focus. Personal issues related to living and ministering in the city are discussed.

Acts: the Emerging Church

November 6-10, 2006

This course examines the foundation and development of the Early Church which initiated a great missionary movement. We will develop a biblical theology of mission which builds on the historical development of the Church in the book of Acts. This course addresses biblical themes such as redemption, prayer, proclamation, and the "all nations theme". We will discover how the early church penetrated pagan culture and grew rapidly in a hostile world.

Interpersonal Relationships

November 27-December 1, 2006

A practical look at the attitudes about relationships and the relationship skills needed in a ministry. The course designed to increase the knowledge, attitudes and skills of Christian Workers in how they relate to family, national and expatriate co-workers, fellow workers and sending churches. Skills needed for building relationships as well as conflict management skills are addressed.
